A screenshot of the Free Download Manager website. The header shows the site name and a tagline "you can rely on it". The navigation menu includes "Home", "Features", "Awards", "Download", "Support", and "Li". The main content area has a large heading "You can download a new version of Free Download Manager for free". Below this, it states the current stable version is FDM ver. 3.9.6 build 1614, with a file size of 10,2 Mb, setup. It lists new features: Unicode support, YouTube downloads thorough processing, and General bug fixes. A large green "DOWNLOAD" button with a download icon is prominent. A red arrow points to this button. Below the button, there is a note for Windows XP users requiring Service Pack 3, and links to download the old 3.8 version or the latest version supporting Windows XP without SP3. The source code is also available via a link.
